

Pasternack Tilker Ziegler
Walsh Stanton & Romano LLP
Attorneys At Law

<http://www.workerslaw.com/workers-compensation-lawyers-nyc/>

Workplace Injury Lawyers in New York City Our Fierce New York City Workers Compensation Attorneys Fight For Clients

You found us because you or a loved one got injured at work—you may be in constant pain, perhaps you can't work due to injuries, you're overwhelmed with workers compensation forms or your benefits stopped and you can't make ends meet. Rest assured, you've come to the right place.

For over 80 years, we've been aggressively defending the rights of hard-working New Yorkers who have been hurt on the job. We help injured workers navigate the complicated workers compensation insurance claim process, from filing a workers compensation claim and choosing a doctor to understanding workers compensation benefits or submitting wage and hour claims. We prepare for every case as if we are going to trial—and have no hesitation to do so if needed—which motivates opponents to settle out of court and with a sizable amount.

From New York City and Long Island to Westchester and Rockland County—Our Workplace Injury Lawyers in New York City On Your Side

Every New York workers comp lawyer knows that workers compensation settlements are crucial to recovery, because workplace injuries can be severe, sometimes resulting in long-term, permanent disability. We offer eight decades of experience and can provide injured employees with the reassurance and reliability that only experience can bring. Worker accidents, injuries and illnesses can be debilitating, from Staten Island, Long Island, Brooklyn and Queens to Westchester, Rockland, the Bronx and Manhattan, and they take many forms:

- Construction accidents
- Hospital workplace injuries
- Repetitive stress injuries
- Work-related car accidents
- Electrocutation accidents

- Tunnel worker silicosis
- Harmful exposure diseases
- Utility worker asbestos
- Machinery accidents
- Heavy lifting injuries
- Hearing and vision loss
- Exposure to chemicals or fumes

For Over 80 Years We've Been Going to Bat For New Yorkers Who Were Hurt at Work

It doesn't matter where you are in your workers comp process—whether you just suffered an on-the-job neck injury yesterday, have been enduring work-related mesothelioma for years or are unsure of how to deal with a denied workers compensation claim. Even if you only suspect your pain or illness is from a job accident, a continuous motion work task or perhaps one of many harmful exposure diseases that workers can get, call New York workers compensation lawyers Pasternack Tilker Ziegler Walsh Stanton & Romano, LLP today. We will conduct a free evaluation of your worker injury and advise you as to the best plan of action, both legally and medically.

Call a Relentless Workers Compensation Lawyer in NYC to Help With Your Benefits

With over thirty dedicated, seasoned attorneys on our staff, we make an ironclad commitment to each client, tackling every injured employee case meticulously and tirelessly. Our goal is to work as hard as we can on your behalf, so you can look forward to physical and financial recovery and get your life back. We also know that New Yorkers are loyal employees who don't want to complain, particularly if they've been working for the same employer for a long while or their boss is a friend or family member. But remember that your employer expects injuries to occur sometimes and wants you to get better, especially if you have a family to support. Workers compensation insurance coverage is part of owning a business and it exists to help people just like you.

For Job Injuries, Call a Tough NY Law Firm With Over 80 Years of Workers Comp Experience

If you came to this page, you're probably suffering from some kind of pain or illness due to an accident at work, on-the-job repetitive stress injuries or an occupational disease. You may have already begun the complicated process of filing a workers compensation claim and are unsure of how to fill out the many forms. Or perhaps you filed the paperwork but your claim was denied, and now you face a hearing to appeal the decision. Or maybe you're not sure if it's a work injury and your boss thinks it's nothing more than a preexisting condition. Don't be discouraged—many New Yorkers just like you have been in your shoes, and that's where we come in. For over 80 years, we've been helping hard-working employees get the restitution they deserve after being hurt on the job—and we want to help you too.

Relentless New York Workers Comp Lawyers Who Will Help You Recover From Job Injuries

Work injuries happen when you least expect them, often when you're doing a task you've been doing on the job for years. That solvent you use every day could spill, causing you to suffer an acute headache and dizziness. After years of working as a contractor, with no construction site injuries, you could lose your balance and fall off a ladder, resulting in numerous broken bones. The delivery van you drive every day may suddenly be rear-ended on your way back to the warehouse, causing you a severe neck injury.

Union Member, City Worker or State Employee? We Know Labor and Civil Service Law Inside Out

We are also extremely experienced in representing union members who have suffered workplace injuries, as well as injured civil servant, state and city/municipal employees. When you're involved in a third-party workplace injury, in which a non-job-related factor is involved, recognizing a workers comp claim can be even more complex.

So if you were injured at work, call the Law Offices of Pasternack Tilker Ziegler Walsh Stanton & Romano, LLP today toll-free at (800) 692-3717 or contact us online for a free evaluation. There is no obligation and every discussion is personalized and confidential.

Hard-working New Yorkers have been counting on us for over 80 years to fight for their rights and you can too. Call us today—we're the knowledgeable, fearless New York personal injury legal team you want on your side.